Martijn van Berlo

Martijn is our resident sustainability coordinator and biologist from the Netherlands. He has a background in tropical ecology and natural resource management. Aside from his work behind the scenes on various sustainability projects, he is also available to share his knowledge with guests, to give an added dimension to our various excursions. Are you interested to learn more about the natural wonders Koh Kood has to offer? For instance, did you know that Koh Kood has more than 100 different butterfly species? Every Thursday night at 6:30pm Martijn will give a richly illustrated presentation about Koh Kood's natural treasures (held at So Spirited). All guests are very welcome to join and learn more about the mystic beauties of Koh Kood.

Hortensia Corredoira

Hortensia has experience and knowledge for treating different sport injuries. Over time, evidence has shown that stress, emotions and un-channeled trauma impact directly the body and results in disease and physical damaged. This had made Hortensia evolve in her technique, leaning towards more inclusive and holistic treatments to release stress. Today, Hortensia's patients range from elite sportsmen to elderly, children and complex cases.

Flavie Audie

Flavie Audi is an artist currently exploring different sets of materials with a strong desire to create works that have a powerful spatial dimension. She believes that an architectural gesture and a work of art are both about making space. In a dematerialized world where all is virtual or mass produced, she believes there is a desire to return to some kind of materiality. She embraces simplicity and directness as a positive practice. Reduction and Distillation down to the essentials are fundamental in order to reconstruct, challenge and twist rebelliously conventional rules.
